Not illustrated. 1866 Excerpt: . terminating either in rain only, or at the utmost, in a few hours squally weather. In 1859 the Barometer, at the end of September, was as much above the average as in 1864, but was followed by no Cyclone. The different Barometer curves such as we have them are given on Plate VI. A great discrepancy will be observed between the two curves for Calcutta. This is partly accounted for by the difference of the instruments, the standard being more sensitive than that observed by Mr. Cogswell, and partly by Mr. Cogswell's observations having been made at shorter intervals during the height of the storm, and by their being unreduced for temperature; but we cannot but consider that the 3 o'clock observation of the standard has been erroneously read or recorded, whether owing to the emotional perturbation of the observer, or other causes....

Reviews

An exceptional pdf and the typeface utilized was fascinating to read through. It can be written in straightforward words and phrases instead of confusing. I am just quickly could possibly get a delight of looking at a written ebook.
